Five Masked Bandits Rob Kenton Roadhouse

Patrons, Including Several from Marion, and Employes Lined Up Against Wall at Gun Point; Manager Slugged When He Refuses To Open Safe

Special to The Star

KENTON Aug 3—Five masked bandits who held up the Falcon club roadhouse here early today escaping with approximately $1 000 in cash in addition to jewelry were sought today by Kenton police and the sheriffs of Hardin and Marion counties Among the patrons robbed were a number from Marion and vicinity

Two men were injured by blows from the bandits when they refused to open the club's safe Hugh Dysert 30 owner of the roadhouse was knocked unconscious when struck in the back of the head with a blackjack and Lee Hites of Marion an employe suffered broken bones in one hand from the bandits blows Hites finally yielded and opened the safe

The gunmen carried out the hold up in a methodical manner shortly before 1 a m They parked the car about 500 feet south of the roadhouse cut telephone wires on about 12 automobiles parked outside destroyed telephone communication and then entered the club through a rear screen door which they cut to gain entrance

Surprise Attack

The five men threaded their way through the kitchen into the main room of the club where they surprised Dysert 12 patrons and six employes two of them women Four of the men were armed with pistols and one carried a sawed off shotgun They lined the men and women up along a wall with their faces to the wall and searched them taking money watches rings and other jewelry

They then turned their attention to the safe which Dysert refused to open One of the bandits struck him and he fell to the floor unconscious None of the employes knew the combination of the safe but one of the gunmen had heard remark that Hites who could open the safe was due to arrive shortly

Hites arrived at the clubhouse in about 45 minutes and found the gunmen awaiting him He also refused to open the safe but gave in when attacked by the bandits They filled the safe and fled None of the occupants saw them drive away but heard their car speeding away

Dysert regained consciousness about the time the gunmen fled His car which had been parked in the garage had escaped the notice of the bandits and had not been damaged Dysert drove into Kenton and notified police Sheriff Lloyd Norman was told of the holdup about 45 minutes later by police who had begun an investigation

A Marion man who was in the club at time of the holdup told Sheriff Norman he could identify three of the bandits He refused to give his name or those of the men he suspected

Sheriff Fred E Miller of Marion was called about 1 a m by Kenton police who asked him to pick up a suspect living at LaRue Miller was told the LaRue man had been killed but two of the victims A sister of the suspect told Miller her brother had not been home for two weeks and that he was working in Columbus Miller investigated the case until about 4 a m and was making a further check this afternoon

Among other suspects were a group of men who had been staying at Indian Lake recently although no thing definite had been learned early this afternoon

A man living between Hepburn and LaRue was arrested by Sheriff Norman as a suspect and was taken to Kenton where one of the women victims of the robbery identified him None of the other victims could identify him however and he was released His relatives declared he had been in bed since 11 o'clock

Kenton police and Sheriff Norman appeared at odds as to their respective jurisdictions in the robbery Police maintained the club is located just outside of town thereby coming under the sheriff's jurisdiction Sheriff Norman however said he had checked the location and found the club to be just inside the city limits and therefore part of the police department's territory He said he intended to turn the investigation over to Kenton police this afternoon

The club is located on Fountain street in the south end of Kenton

RED PRESS HITS NIPPON RAIDERS

Flares Angrily Over Rejection of Protest Against Wrecking of Consulate

SYMPATHIZES WITH CHINA

Declares Japanese Inspired White Russians To Attack Soviet Officers

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW Aug 3—The newspaper Izvestia official organ of the Soviet government today charged Japan was trying to provoke a conflict with the U S S R by any means in a denunciation of the wrecking of the Russian consulate at Tientsin

The entire Soviet press blazed with indignation as Japan rejected a determined Russian protest against the raid on the Russian consulate during the fighting between Chinese and Japanese for possession of the city

Izvestia declared the attack on the consulate by white Russians opposed to the present Soviet regime was inspired by the insolent cowardly action of Japanese militarists and charged it was made in revenge for the failure of frequent attempts to raid Soviet frontiers

Foresee Retaliation

"The white guard provocateurs Japanese masters should know their vile provocations toward the U S S R will fall and not remain unchallenged thundered Pravda organ of the Communist party

The Russian press expressed open sympathy for China in the conflict with Japan over the rich north China provinces of Hopeh and Chahar

It is no enough that the Japanese army is bombing Chinese cities exterminating a peaceful population and occupying foreign territory Pravda asserted

It is using every occasion to try to provoke new conflicts The path of the Japanese troops is strewn with bodies Passing through the burned Chinese quarters they are strolling all over the city like hungry wolves searching for objects to attack"

The press also attacked the Japanese administration of the Chinese Eastern railway and accused it of again withholding pensions due former Soviet employes of the line

1 500 Get Pensions

Soviet moves had failed to obtain payment of pensions for more than 1 500 Soviet citizens under the terms of the Soviet cession of the road to Manchukuo the press dispatches declared

The Japanese ambassador to Moscow Mamoru Shigemitsu told the Russian foreign office last night that his government could not comply with the Russian demands that the raiders be punished property seized by them returned and compensation paid for the damages

The Soviet charged the attack was made by white Russians who are opposed to the Soviet regime and was organized by the Japanese intelligence service

"Japan has no interest in troubles between the Russians" the ambassador said

Verbal representations were made to the Japanese embassy in Moscow while a formal protest was lodged with the Japanese government in Tokyo Soviet officials described their protest as "determined" but gave no indication as to how far they would carry the demands

The incident added further strain to the delicate relations which have existed between the two governments since Russian and Japanese troops clashed in June over the islands in the Amur river, northeastern frontier of Manchukuo and Siberia.

CORN CROP'S VALUE HIGHEST SINCE 1929

Experts Claim $1 750 000 000 Worth of Maize Is Now Ripening in Midwest

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug 3—A corn crop valued at $1 750 000 000 the biggest money crop farmers have had since 1929 was ripening in the corn belt today August estimates of six Chicago grain experts indicated today

Basing their estimates on reports from farmers throughout the producing area and on the latest official acreage figures the private crop authorities here most of whom have just returned from personal field inspection trips forecast 1937 domestic corn production would total 2 771 000 000 bushels

This would be the biggest United States crop since the record breaking harvest in 1932 of 2 906 000 000 bushels

Need of Higher Pay for Teachers Cited by Hudson

School Head Tells Board of Difficulty in Keeping Instructors as Better Jobs Open

Supt C A Hudson yesterday advised the city board of education to give serious consideration to raising the salary scale for Marion teachers as it was brought to light that several instructors had resigned or declined contracts to accept better paying positions elsewhere At the regular board meeting at the school administration office he said it is becoming increasingly difficult for him to obtain teachers of sufficient merit to meet the demands of a city the size of Marion

Following the meeting he amplified his statement to the board by saying any contemplated salary increases will not be likely to come within the near future but perhaps in one or two years

Teachers who resigned to accept more lucrative positions are Vance Kersell industrial arts instructor at Ellison Junior High school who will go to Euclid O L H Saxon vocational instructor at Harding High school who has accepted a position in a West Virginia normal school Miss Ruth Snyder formerly at Greenwood school who has gone to Centerville for a more attractive position George Niemi of Ashtabula Harbor who has signed a contract last month to serve in the high school industrial arts department asked to be released to study further Miss Julia Boggs of Lexington O and Miss Elizabeth Swingle of Zanesville who were offered contracts here last month have declined to accept because of more acceptable positions elsewhere Mr Hudson reported

Grade Teacher Quits

Another resignation received yesterday was that of Miss Marguerite Hill elementary teacher at George Washington school who has not announced plans for the future

In addition William Edwards employed to teach industrial arts tendered his resignation but the board has agreed to increase his salary sufficiently to meet the pay offered elsewhere

Three people have turned down our household arts position because of the pay offered Mr Hudson said We can offer them only our scale pay since it is obvious we cannot bring in a teacher at a higher pay than our present staff is receiving In addition it would not be fair to our present teachers to hire the mediocre type which our pay scale might attract"

The board yesterday approved recommendations of Mr Hudson for the following appointments to fill vacancies Miss Eloise Dixon of Green Camp formerly at Martel and Pleasant schools elementary Miss Reta Van Meter of Morrel elementary Miss Dorothy Burnett of 296 Waterloo street elementary Miss Margaret Cushing of Cheney avenue secretary to the Secretary of Alliance Industrial arts in Junior High school Miss Kathryn Glick of Columbus commercial high school subjects and Franklin Drake of Elgin national high school subjects

Still open is a basketball arts position at Harding two industrial arts positions one elementary position

Liquidation of 2 Closed Banks Nearing Finish

Agents Announce Drive To Bring In All Remaining Assets

Plans to wind up the affairs of the Commercial Bank at the Marion Savings Bank were announced today by J C Brown a liquidator of the state superintendent of banks and T A White liquidator in Marion If the program works according to schedule the final dividend to the 1 500 depositors of the Savings Bank will be made within 90 days

The Commercial Bank which has only 29 creditors remaining out of among them being the city and the three Marion banks will be closed sooner according to Mr Brown Application will be filed shortly in common pleas court for permission to turn over all remaining assets for the benefit of these creditors The assets are of a doubtful nature he said Creditors of the Bank have been paid 50 cents on the dollar and an additional 10 per cent has been set aside to meet all unfiled claims

When the Commercial bank closed in 1931 the other Marion banks the Marion County Fahey and National City Bank & Trust Co paid off the depositors of the bank thus becoming the largest creditors themselves

In winding up the affairs of the Marion Savings bank a determined effort will be made effective immediately to collect all outstanding notes from approximately 200 residents of Marion and vicinity Mr Brown said

Those who owe on notes will find it to their advantage to come into the liquidation office and arrange a settlement" he said "Those who do not clean up their

AIRPLANE CARRYING 14 REPORTED DOWN IN SEA WITH NO SIGN OF LIFE

Whole Craft Under Water 30 Miles Northeast of Cristobal, Army Fliers Inform Washington

HEADED FOR CANAL

Ship Had Radioed Panama It Was Circling Down Because of Overcast Skies Along Route.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 3—The war department received a message from the Panama military establishment today asserting an army plane had located the missing Pan American Grace Airways flying boat 33 miles northeast of Cristobal but that it had found no signs of life near it

The brief radio message said merely that the air liner Santa Maria which carried 14 passengers and a crew of three was located totally under water with no sign of life

The Pan American Grace ship took off yesterday from Guayaquil Ecuador for Balboa in the Canal Zone

Report Skies Overcast

In its last radio message to Panama it reported that it was circling downward because of overcast skies

The full text of the Texas message sent to the chief of army air corps here by the signal officer of the Panama Canal department said

Missing Pan American plane located 33 miles northeast Cristobal totally under water No sign of life

War department officials expressed the belief any army plane still floating in the search for the missing airliner had made the report but they were not advised as to this detail

Army Navy In Hunt

The United States army and navy had spread a sweeping fan of planes and ships to seek the luxurious liner

The searchers combed sea and coast on both Atlantic and Pacific sides of the isthmus

With a woman and two children in its radio the Santa Maria seemingly overshot its Cristobal port in a cloudy sky at dusk last night

At that hour the Santa Maria's wireless signals were heard so strongly at Cristobal that it was assumed the plane was over the field there But nothing more came from the plane

Lt Stephen Dunn said then he was seeking an opening through the clouds for a descent into the Cristobal airport He was evidently unable to pick up a landmark that would give him the field's direction.

Pilot a Veteran

Dunn veteran of eight years of flying in Latin America is thoroughly familiar with the coast line on both sides and with the surrounding country

The navy department at Washington said a total of 65 planes the navy aircraft tender Teal, the survey ship Sonoma and the destroyers Tayloe and Babbitt had been ordered into the search

(On the Atlantic side of the canal officials said 20 navy patrol planes three navy amphibians and 14 army planes were ordered out, on the Pacific side two navy patrol planes one navy amphibian and 25 army craft)

The Pan American clipper scheduled to take off at 6 a m today for Miami Fla and with which the missing ship was to have made connections cancelled its flight and joined the search

All other Pan American Grace Airways ships also were taken from regular service to hunt the big bikeracy amphibian which was flying from Guayaquil Ecuador The pilot was Stephen Dunn.

It was 24 hours behind schedule before leaving Guayaquil because of an overnight lay-over on a flight that started at Lima, Peru.

City Campaign Quiet As Primary Day Draws Near

Candidates Show Little Activity, 14 of 32 Office Seekers on Ballots Are Unopposed

As the August primary election nears its end with a week away Marion remains a study in the quietest political campaign in the recent history of the city in its final week

On a few of the candidates have been making any bid for votes at the polls next Tuesday their appeals have been limited to a few personal notices in the daily papers and a few cards at meetings

Absentee voters failing to avail themselves of the private ballot booths at the polls next Tuesday will be virtually light Early estimates of those to have run as low as 1 000 with election officials hoping to see the 2 000 mark completed by around 10 o'clock next night

Only 32 Absentee Votes

Today the absentee vote failed to reach 32 or about half the total at the corresponding date two years ago in the primaries Two years ago at this time the total was 60 and the figure for the entire primary absentee ballot was 130 Election officials predict the total this year will be 75 or 80 the last day for voting by absentee ballot is Saturday

The voting today at yesterday were Dan C Orahood of 193 Parkwood Sara M Beebe of 155 South Prospect street Howard Ritter of 484 South Prospect street Leona Sanders of 18 Davis street John J Davis of 344 Bellefontaine avenue and Lucia V Davis of 344 Bellefontaine avenue

Registration for the primary was less than 300 while the total registration is about 700 election officials said They attributed the decrease to extremely heavy voting last fall which made it unnecessary for many people to register again

The campaign has been unusually free of issues and the general public election officials said apparently is unaware that voting time is so near

The tickets of both parties are filled with the exception of two vacant spaces in Democratic ticket The party has no candidate for city solicitor or president of council

14 Are Unopposed

Fourteen of the 32 candidates whose names will appear on the primary ballots have no contests for the nominations they seek

Chief interest centers around the three-sided contest for the mayoralty nomination on the Democratic ticket The rivals are Eugene F Hill 47 of 340 Hane avenue a wholesale retail dealer in petroleum products father of three and Glenn Clifford R Mercer 48 of 56 Patterson street street an employe of the Pollak Steel Co father of two children and Fred W Davis 42 of 560 West Center street a WPA worker

On the Republican ticket Mayor Lester B C Smith is opposed for renomination by Mark Smith a Marion garage operator and salesman Mayor Smith and Mrs Smith are parents of two girls

Two women are among the candidates for council positions this year They are Mrs Ella M Eikenbary a Democrat in the ninth ward and Mrs Lena M Lape also a Democrat seeking

HOUSING BILL'S PASSAGE NEAR

Debate in Senate Cut Short To Give Author Time To Study Changes

SEEK AID FOR NEEDY ONLY

Would Also Keep Cost Down and Clear Slums in Ratio to Building

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 3 Major Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) predicted senate approval of the Wagner Lewis low cost housing bill by mid afternoon today

Debate was cut short yesterday to give Sen Wagner Dem (N Y) author of the bill additional time to study amendments submitted by Senator Walsh Democrat of Massachusetts and Byrd Democrat of Virginia

Their amendments would tighten rules designed to exclude the use of the low cost facilities from the benefits of federal housing to keep the cost down and to cut local slum clearance in proportion to new units

Calls For Loans Grants

The bill would give the federal government power to make annual contributions to local housing authorities not to exceed a specified percentage of annual interest and principal payments on their bonds

Issuance of $750 000 000 in bonds during the next three years and an initial appropriation of $500 000 000 would be authorized

Sen Wagner urged enactment of the measure as a milestone in social service and great advance from an economic standpoint"

He said there was "practically no opposition to his proposal that it had been introduced by every labor organization women's groups such as the League of Women Voters and at least 1 000 other organizations

Byrd told the senate it should not duplicate the extravagance of the resettlement administration That agency he said had spent from $16 000 to $20 000 per unit for construction of new homes for poor people.

Wants $4,000 Limit

The Virginian proposed limiting the cost of any project to $4 000 a unit or $1 000 a room Wagner had estimated those amounts as the probable cost of units to be

AFL SEEKS CHANGE IN WAGE-HOUR BILL

Green Says Roosevelt Agrees to Provisions Guarding Collective Bargaining.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 3—William Green president of the American Federation of Labor, said after a White House conference today that President Roosevelt and agrees in principle to three amendments suggested by the federation to the wage hour bill

Green said the three amendments, which he would propose, were

1—A clarification of the bill to make sure there would be "no setting aside of collective bargaining agreements" when minimum wages and maximum hours were fixed by the labor standards board provided for in the bill

2—A prohibition against the boards fixing any minimum wage in a locality lower than those provided for in collective bargaining agreements also a provision that the board consider prevailing wages in the locality Although differentials

DISTRICT BRIEFS

KENTON—Merritt Monson of Richwood sustained painful head injuries in an automobile accident near Belle Center Sunday. His condition is not serious, McKitrick hospital attaches said.

MARYSVILLE—Electricity was made available at noon Monday to approximately 30 customers of the Union Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., on 14 miles of line, it was announced by William E. Trommershausen, supervisor for the county-wide REA project.

BUCYRUS—Sixty-five secondary streets in Bucyrus are being treated with oil this week preparatory to being resurfaced with an asphalt composition. The work is being done by Louis Demuth, Tiffin contractor.

FOUR MARYSVILLE PEOPLE IN ACCIDENT

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Aug. 3 — Four members of the August C. Schwartzkopf family of this city, suffered injuries in an auto collision on a country road near Westerville yesterday.

Mrs. Schwartzkopf suffered a deep cut on the forehead and lost five teeth when she was hurled against the windshield. Her son, John, 15, sustained a cut on the head which required several stitches. Miss Gertrude Schwartzkopf suffered a cut under her right eye and her brother Carl, who was driving, suffered an injury to his knee cap. They were given medical attention at Westerville before returning home.

W. G. Wood of Worthington driver of the other car, escaped with bruises. The accident was said to have happened when Mr. Wood drove out of a side road and the driver of the other machine was unable to avoid the crash. Both cars were badly damaged.

HORSEMEN PREPARE FOR FAIR RACES

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Aug. 3 — Hardin county race horses today prepared for the round of county fairs after injuries had taken their toll, preventing an early start in Grand Circuit and stake events.

$5,000 FIRE SWEEPS WYANDOT CO. FARM

Barn, Sheds, Silo, Hogs, Hay, Grain and Tools Destroyed Near Upper Sandusky.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 3—Fire of undetermined origin caused nearly $5,000 damage Monday at 1:30 p. m. when a barn, three sheds, a silo and two straw stacks were destroyed on the L. A. Kuenzli farm east of here, tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Montgomery.

The fire was discovered by Fred Welbourne, pro on the nearby Evergreen golf course. The Crane township fire truck from here was called out and a large group of neighbors gathered to help fight the blaze which swept from a straw stack to the barn and other buildings. Some farm tools, seven hogs, 50 tons of hay and over 50 bushels of barley were also destroyed. The barn, a 74 by 36 foot structure, and two sheds were practically new. Insurance was carried on both buildings and the contents.

CHICAGOAN FINED $200 AT KENTON

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug. 3—Roy Mackey of Chicago, Ill., was fined $200 and costs Monday in mayor's court after pleading guilty to operating a motor vehicle with illegal license plates. He was arrested after his car had collided with one driven by Paul W. Dinkel of Marysville, along state route 31, north of here. Dinkel filed the affidavit and testified that the defendant drove away from scene of the accident. Mackey was committed to county jail until the fine and costs are paid.

BUCYRUS COUPLE WEDS

BUCYRUS, Aug. 3—Mrs. Blanche Mowery and Frank Sell, both of Bucyrus, were united in marriage Sunday at Lorain at the home of Earl D. Mowery. The service was performed by Rev. Victor Peterson, pastor of Emanuel Evangelical church of Lorain. Mr. and Mrs. Sell will live at 841 South Walnut street.

DEATH TAKES HAND IN FAMILY REUNION

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Aug. 3—"I'm ready to die now," prophetically spoke the 85-year-old mother of Mrs. David S. Silverstein of Kenton as she was reunited with her daughter and other relatives at the old family home in Kelaam, Poland, July 11. Before the reunion festivities were over she became ill. Three days later she died. The visit marked Mrs. Silverstein's first trip home since leaving there 17 years ago. Her husband, a prominent Kenton waste materials dealer, this week received a letter telling details of the reunion and subsequent death of the mother.

UPPER SANDUSKY, NEVADA PAIR WED

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 3—Miss Marjorie Faye Swann of here, and Benjamin A. Barbitta of Nevada, were united in marriage Saturday at 10:30 a. m. at Calvary Evangelical church in Akron, with the pastor, Rev. E. E. Nietz, reading the single ring service. The ceremony was witnessed by Mrs. Nietz, former local resident, Miss Luella Nietz and Mrs. Oliver Warner all of Akron. Following a wedding trip to Cleveland, they will make their home at Nevada.

would be allowed. Green said the second amendment also would prohibit a minimum rate in one locality from discriminating against another locality.

3—Elimination of the section which would put the wage-hour provisions of the Walsh-Healey act under which standards for government contractors are fixed, under the supervision of the new board.

The house labor committee unexpectedly postponed consideration of the bill today. Chairman Norton, Democrat of New Jersey, said action was delayed at the request of President Roosevelt.

Mrs Norton said the changes presumably coming from the White House, were designed to bring the bill passed by the senate more in line with "what is desired by labor organizations and the country at large."

9-YEAR-OLD CAR USES LESS THAN QUART OF SOHIO MOTOR OIL IN 1376 MILES

"I was not one of your customers until recently. My neighborhood SOHIO Dealer got me to make a 1000-mile test of SOHIO X-70 and SOHIO Motor Oil. Well, I got the best gasoline mileage I've ever had, and used less than a quart of SOHIO Motor Oil in 1376 miles, which is remarkable for my old 1928 car. Needless to add, the dealer got a new customer." (Letter from Chrysler owner in Columbus. Name on request)

IT'S A LONG TIME BETWEEN QUARTS WITH SOHIO MOTOR OIL!

Because of its extremely tough film of protection, you do use less SOHIO Motor Oil between drains. You not only buy less but you pay less, since SOHIO is from 5c to 10c lower per quart than other premium quality oils!

ARCHBISHOP INSTALLED AMID POMP IN DETROIT

Leaders of North American Catholic Heirarchy Attend Ceremonies For Most Rev. Edward Mooney.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT Aug 3—With the ageold pageantry of the Catholic church the Most Rev Archbishop Edward Mooney was installed today as archbishop of the newly created archdiocese of Detroit the 17th in the United States

More than half the archbishops and bishops of the Catholic hierarchy in North America many of them from Canada were gathered in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament when the Most Rev Amleto Giovanni Cicognani D D apostolic delegate to the United States placed in the right hand of the archbishop the golden crozier symbolic of spiritual authority over 600 000 Catholics

Nine archbishops 58 bishops 1 700 monsignori priests nuns and heads of religious orders, together with a sprinkling of distinguished laity, witnessed the solemn ceremonial A choir of 60 students of the Duns Scotus Franciscan monastery sang the Te Deum

Following the installation ceremony, Archbishop Mooney descended from his golden and green throne and chanted a pontifical mass

Tomorrow as his first official act the new metropolitan will preside in Lansing Mich at the installation of the Most Rev Joseph H Albers auxiliary bishop of the Cincinnati archdiocese as head of the new Lansing diocese

The public welcome for Archbishop Mooney was at the Michigan Central station last night where thousands of Catholics and non-Catholics gathered for his arrival from Rochester N Y One hundred priests of the Rochester diocese which he has served as bishop for nearly four years accompanied him to Detroit Formal greetings on behalf of the state and the city were extended by Gov Frank Murphy and James Fitzgerald

The Rochester delegation and a group of 300 persons from Cleveland and Youngstown O had prominent places in the church for the installation ceremony Archbishop Mooney spent his early years in Youngstown and held pastorate there He was a college professor for several years in Cleveland

The Blessed Sacrament church was decorated within and without with the papal colors gold and white and American flags for the enthronement Over the door through which the prelates and clergy marched in a solemn and colorful processional was an elaborate shield bearing the coat of arms of Archbishop Mooney

SALESMEN OF LIQUOR RECEIPTS SOUGHT

State Officials Think Other Frauds Perpetrated in This District.

Cooperation of the public in Marion and surrounding counties in the apprehension of two men who have fleeced at least one Marion resident by posing as representatives of a non existent whisky company, was asked yesterday by the Ohio division of securities

The men represent themselves as agents of a Chicago company apparently a fictitious firm since it is not known to the whisky trade according to O I Fleckner of Columbus, attorney inspector of the securities division of the state department of commerce

Apparently they have gone through the Marion district leaving forged certificates of the General Distillers Corporation of Kentucky for valuable warehouse receipts held by various persons

The one reported instance was of a Marion woman who said one of the men came here June 28 and induced her to trade $200 worth of good warehouse receipts for forged certificates for eight barrels of whisky Three days later a fellow worker appeared and completed the trade

Mr Fleckner said the certificates given by the men are on the Kentucky corporation which has issued none since Feb 1 1937, when it suspended operations because of the flood All holders of any General Distillers certificates issued after that date are asked to notify Mr Fleckner at the securities division in Columbus at once

The Marion woman who said obtained her valuable certificates for five barrels of whisky in the liquidation of a closed building and loan company discovered the fraud when she sought the advice of a broker

She told officials the men said they had made similar trades in other Ohio cities Mr Fleckner said the aid of Sheriff Fred F Miller is being enlisted and that the men if caught, will be prosecuted here

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Sunshine Valuable.

This is the time of the year when everyone is interested in sun baths and can get them without cost. Everybody is eager to obtain a protective coat of tan. The well-tanned individual appears healthy, robust and full of "pep."

In addition to his health look he actually feels well and better able to enjoy his work. The sunshine develops qualities which permit him to fight off infections at the time of the year.

The health value of sunshine can not be overstated. Everyone should obtain as much of it as possible at every time of the year. Storage of the helpful effects of the rays of the sun in the body will help you carry on during the fall and winter months. The wise person considers the future.

The possibilities of the summer months in the way of restoring health and strength are well known. At this season of the year it is possible to indulge in fresh air and exercise a privilege which is denied many of us during the winter months.

But be careful! It is well to bear in mind that excessive amounts of sunshine are harmful. Particularly it is wise to avoid sudden and undue exposure to the rays of the sun. Many severe and often painful burns result from such exposure. Destruction of the protective layer of the skin may take place from severe burning. I have seen persons afflicted with a serious sunburn who were obliged to have weeks of care in a hospital.

If you are anxious to obtain that desired coat of tan remember to take your first doses of sunlight in small quantities. Only after the skin has become definitely tanned can the exposure be prolonged without danger of a burn. This advice is especially directed to those who have extremely sensitive skin.

Baby specialists point out that during the summer months it is important to expose the infant to the direct rays of the sun. Here too precautions must be taken. For example the child's eyes should be protected from the steady glare of sunshine. As it affects the adult children and prolonged exposure of the baby to the sun may lead to severe and dangerous burns.

Please be sensible sirs! throughout the hot days of summer. Bear in mind that overexposure to the sun may result in heat stroke or sun stroke.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. W. F. C. Q.—What do you advise for an excessively oily scalp which becomes oily after being thoroughly shampooed within one day? Different scalp treatments have proven futile. What can be done to correct a condition of this kind?

A.—The general health is apt to be a factor under such circumstances. A careful examination will determine whether or not there is any underlying constitutional disorder. For full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Miss H. W. Q.—I'm a young girl of 15 and am very nervous underweight and troubled with poor circulation. What would you advise?

A.—These symptoms may be overcome by following the general rules for good health. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. W. M. W. Q.—My little girl of nine has pin worms that worm I've doctored with her for two years without result. This is making her nervous and restless. She just can't go still. What would you advise?

A.—Every effort should be made to overcome this condition as it has a tendency to affect the nervous system. For full particulars restate your question and send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

M. D. Q.—What would cause my eyelids to swell? There is a similar condition beneath the eyes which looks as though the puff were filled with water. I wear carefully fitted glasses. I am a woman of 47 years of age.

A.—This may be due to a number of causes. See your doctor for examination and advice.

IT'S ODD

But It's Science

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

OKLAHOMA CITY — Kindergarten size rainstorms in western Oklahoma have given the U. S. weather authorities new ideas on the shapes of storms.

About 250 farmers and ranchers on relief operating as the Oklahoma Climatic Research association in Blaine, Kingfisher and Logan counties, have been making storms for a year. C. Warren Thornwaite U. S. soil conservation service tells the preliminary results in the review of the American Geographical Society.

Nearly 100 reports were available on single storms. The wind it was found tended to blow in "channels" about 70 to 90 miles apart. This channeling effect says Mr. Thornwaite may explain the puzzle of some fields eroding in dry country while the next door are nearly untouched. Channels were about eight miles wide.

PAROLE GIVEN MAN FROM MARION

John Burns who was sentenced to Ohio penitentiary from Marion county July 30 1931 on a charge of forgery was among 40 inmates of the London prison farm granted parole today by the state pardon board. The Associated Press reported today from Columbus. Burns is to be released Sept. 1 to go to Kentucky. Harry Bosell of Hardin county charged with burglary and grand larceny is to be released Aug. 20.

Burns was placed on probation here Feb. 1 1926 on his plea of guilty to an indictment charging forgery of a $2440 check on the National City Bank & Trust Co. On violation of his probation in July he was sentenced to a term of from one to 20 years. Judge Hector S. Young.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Struck Down as Gang Makes Getaway

Folk the fraction of a second I was paralyzed with terror at the sight of the gangster's hand in which a writhing shape as he thrust it through the window into which I just had tossed the note.

That it was a weapon meant to send me into eternity I was sure for that flashing frantic split of time. Then as it gave out three tinny tinkles which still I have been hearing in the restless nights of my nerves recalled and I was able to giggle as Linda's again.

"My friend she tickled at me little things bell over there. I said and the man behind me took one hand away from my arm and doubled it into a fist.

"You'll keep your trap shut for a while anyway," he muttered and struck me to the ground with a savage blow.

I still not see one fourth for I had expected the blow and managed to jerk my head so the savage as it was in fire fell on my expected against my heavy hair and my hat. But I pretended unconsciousness until the man started around the corner after Lansing over me hastily.

"Out cold," I heard him utter to himself as he washed away and then I summoned all my strength and crawled along the wall to the corner of the narrow terrace where shielded by the shrubbery I could see the parked cars.

Two of them were being started and I couldn't see the chauffeurs so I didn't know which belonged to the gangsters. But the next instant the men who had been at the table together with the two young gunmen who had cut in on Marion and Carolyn fairly rolled out of the front entrance. Pulling forces they dived into the two cars which were now running.

Some stewed dame took it for a movie, I don't know anything but I think I take a chance knocked her cold enough to stay for 10 minutes anyway."

Okay. Step on it," and the two cars tore away with out of the parking place and then I my dismay separated going in opposite directions along the road in front of the cars.

Cuts and bruises of painful bruises on my body as well as on my head I thought my knowledge of stage technique had enabled me instinctively to break the fall it had not been for I was only getting to my knees when I saw Lillian coming through the door of the powder room and slowing it after her.

Madge she whispered as I answered her with a murmured. Here I was seconds later with a semi-hysterical exclamation of horror she had rushed me to my feet and caught me in her arms.

"What have they done to you?" she whispered.

Nothing much I managed to whisper back. "I'll be all right. I'm not hurt but I asked the time pretty well. Help me get my hat and clothes and hair straightened I can't go back in there looking like this."

"You never saw such a quick getaway in your life," she said as she helped me rearrange myself. "Thanks to you they're gone at last we can get home. Did you notice which way they went?"

They went both ways," I whispered despairingly. "They had two cars."

"That's all right," she said quickly. "We'll have a chance at least to finish our dinner in peace. But if you can stand to stay. Let me have a good look at you."

She took me by the arms and put me into the shadow of the wall. Then taking a tiny pocket flashlight from her bag she let its rays play over me.

"You don't feel like the devil," she said shutting the flashlight off. "No you don't look like an angel."

And with a faltering note she slipped her hand beneath my arm and escorted me back into the powder room.

WOMAN CIO LEADER BEATEN IN CLEVELAND

Attacked Near Picket Line After Attending Strike Peace Conference

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3 — Rose Pesotta vice president of the International Ladies Garment Workers union knew only two ways of getting from peace to war and carried a constant reminder of the knowledge in the form of cuts and bruises on her head.

Within an hour after leaving a peace conference called yesterday by Municipal Judge Joseph H. Silbert she told police she was attacked near the CIO picket line at the Federal Knitting Mills by five women whom she said she recognized as workers at the plant which has been organized by AFL unionists.

Miss Pesotta told police also was attacked and beaten as she was making a telephone call at a store near the picket line. She was treated at a hospital for head injuries and was then released.

She was one of eight CIO union leaders called to the conference by Judge Silbert to discuss labor conditions which have arisen in the city since the strikes and how to stop vandalism.

Judge Silbert said the CIO leaders contended most of the vandalism had been brought about by persons not connected with their organization.

Stephen Kohler 54 and Joseph Cavalucki 33 CIO strikers were treated at a hospital for minor injuries received in a clash with AFL workers outside the knitting plant.

At Lorain striking CIO employes of the Brewster Co. were to decide today whether or not the company's plants here and in Elyria would reopen at 8 a.m.

The plants were scheduled to be reopened in the event strikers ratified an agreement reached late last night between representatives of the company management and the union.

Under this agreement they said the company promised to work out a schedule which will avoid Sunday work so far as possible and will eliminate the rotary shift while the company and CIO union agreed to submit to an impartial referee the question of whether the company had violated a 40 hour week agreement calling for time and a half for overtime.

The strike was called yesterday affecting 869 employes here and 200 at Elyria.

JAPANESE BOMB CHINESE ARMIES

Raids Carried On With Contending Forces Just Few Miles Apart.

By The Associated Press
TIENTSIN, Aug 3 — Japanese planes rained bombs on the rear of the advancing Chinese armies today at Tehchow on the border of Hopeh and Shantung provinces 50 miles south of Paotingfu.

A column of Japanese infantry, supported by artillery and tanks, was pressing southward by forced marches to dispute the advance of Chinese central government troops into Hopeh province.

Japan claims the holds a sphere of influence in the Hopeh-Chahar province and in a series of undeclared war has captured its two main cities—Tientsin and Peiping.

Japanese troops were reported to have reached a point 30 miles south of Tientsin, fighting scattered engagements as they advanced. Japanese headquarters reported, however, they had met no real resistance.

Nears Enemy Forces

The advance brought the Japanese within a few miles of the rear column of the 29th Chinese army now being reorganized after their defeats at Tientsin and Langfang on the line of the railroad to Peiping.

The Japanese advance to the south was along the Tientsin to Pukow railroad, the same route the large bodies of troops ordered to the north by the central government were said to be following. The Tientsin-Pukow line bisects Shantung province and is the Nanking government's direct link with the north.

The Japanese movement to the south from the general headquarters at Tientsin was the materialization of their long expected move to gain a deep enough front to secure strategical and military control of Hopeh province.

A dispatch from advices said the spearhead of the Chinese advance had reached Tehchow and that independent units had already crossed the border into Hopeh province to bolster the reorganization of the 29th army.

Move Against Capital

To the southwest of Peiping a large body of Japanese troops was marching against Paotingfu capital of Hopeh province and concentration point for the western column of the national Chinese armies. Chinese reported the Japanese were advancing behind a screen of aerial bombardment.

Within the conquered areas of Peiping and Tientsin Japanese administrative officers were systematically attempting to obliterate the last vestiges of the Nanking government's influence.

Under the Japanese direction at Peiping police were conducting a house to house search, destroying pictures of Chinese nationalist leaders and burning nationalist literature. Chinese were warned future possession of such things would be considered "incriminating."

Unconfirmed reports said that Japanese officials had formed a list of 125 prominent Chinese who were being tracked down and taken into custody. It was impossible to confirm the report but one of those listed was said to be Dr. Wilson Wei, a member of the Hopeh-Chahar political council and editor of the English language newspaper, the Peiping News. It is known that the American-educated editor fell into the hands of Japanese Saturday afternoon.

The guards were lifted from Peiping gates today and free permission was granted to foreigners to come and go. None, however, left the city.

Crop insurance—passed senate, house committee meets today.

Deficiency appropriations—still being framed by house committee.

REBELS DRIVE ENEMY FROM MOUNTAIN FORT

Report Cutting Loyalist Line of Communications and Seizing Headquarters.

By The Associated Press
HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug 3—Two insurgent brigades were reported today to have driven Madrid-Valencia troops from their principal mountain fortification on the Teruel front near Bezas and to have cut their main communications artery.

An official insurgent communique recounted in detail the twin operations, the latest developments in Gen Francisco Franco's effort to hammer a wedge into government territory in eastern Spain and split the liaison between inland Madrid and coastal Valencia, temporary seat of the Republican government.

The two-headed thrust brought capture of the government field headquarters at the summit of a 4,000-foot pinecled mountain and huge stocks of munitions and supplies, the communique said, and at least 100 government dead were left in Bezas by the routed troops.

But perhaps the most important result of the attack was the government's loss of a secondary roadway linking its forces in that sector of the Teruel front.

Bezas, southwest of Teruel, is about 15 miles north of the Cuenca road, an immediate objective of Franco's drive toward the main Madrid-Valencia highway.

The Cuenca highway, an improved thoroughfare, offered Franco's legions full play for their mechanized equipment—if they could reach it. Once on it Franco might quickly paralyze the provincial capital, Cuenca, and then strike directly at the Madrid-Valencia highway with which the road connects.

SIX BURN TO DEATH IN COLORADO CABIN

By The Associated Press
RAND, Colo, Aug 3—Coroner M A Durham sought today to locate relatives of Logan Boltz, 50, one of six persons burned to death in a four-room cabin near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Briggs, both 25, and their three infant children were the other casualties. Neighbors saw the flames too late to warn the victims, apparently caught in their sleep early yesterday. Boltz came here two years ago.

ARMY MEN SURVEY BELLEVUE FLOOD

By The Associated Press
BELLEVUE, O, Aug 3—Three army engineers from the Buffalo district office began today a detailed survey of flood damage in Bellevue and the four counties—Huron, Erie, Sandusky and Seneca—on whose borders this city stands.

Myron Jones, who appraised Ohio river flood damage in Cincinnati last winter, is in charge of the work here. He said the army sought statistical data for use in flood control studies for the future.

JACKIE COOGAN LECTURED

BELLEVUE, O, Aug 3—Jackie Coogan, former child movie star, received a lecture from State Highway Patrolman R L Galbreath for driving, the officer said, with only one license plate on his car. Coogan said the other plate was stolen in Illinois.

BRITON FAILS AGAIN; YACHT RACES HALTED

One-Day Delay Called for Inspection of Both Sailing Vessels.

By The Associated Press
NEWPORT, R. I., Aug 3—A one-day halt in the yachting battle for the America's cup was called today, in the wake of a second rout of the British challenger, Endeavour II, by Harold S. Vanderbilt's defending sloop Ranger.

Both yachts were taken to the Herreshoff yard at Bristol for inspection after T O M Sopwith thoroughly trounced by Vanderbilt in the two races already held, asked for a postponement of today's scheduled race. Ranger needs only two more races to retain the historic cup.

Sopwith ordered the British sloop hauled out because of a remote suspicion she might have fouled a lobster pot line with her center board, a circumstance which might easily explain her poor showing against Ranger.

An examination of the hull of Sopwith's challenger, however, disclosed no apparent damage or trouble to the sloop.

Endeavour trailed Ranger home yesterday in the second race of the international series by 15 minutes and 32 seconds. In the opening contest Saturday the coat of shellac was thinner only by about a minute and a half.

In discussing the two races Sopwith freely admitted Ranger can point higher on the wind and at the same time foot faster than Endeavour II.

"Mr Vanderbilt," he said "sailed her higher than we could sail and faster."

The possibility of a curious flaw in the challenger's construction or hull was revealed by the British sportsman.

"We have found," he said "that Endeavour II is faster on the starboard than the port tack."

He offered no explanation of this phenomenon but if true, the boat could not possibly be at her best.

There was in Sopwith's praise for Ranger the sincere admiration of a yachtsman for a fine vessel.

"It is quite extraordinary," he said "the way that boat foots it. I think you have a remarkably fast boat. That's that."

He also had praise for his own "grand crew," which observers now are ready to concede closely approaches if not equals the smart sail handling of Vanderbilt's crack paid hands. The crew which sailed to defeat with him on the first Endeavour in 1934 was widely criticized for laggard trimming of that challenger's canvas. Observers thus far have been unable to make slighting remarks about seamanship aboard the new sloop.

Ranger's victory yesterday of 18 minutes, 32 seconds, broke a record for a 30-mile triangular course established by Val Kyri off Sandy Hook in 1893 when she beat the British challenger Vigilant by 12 minutes, 23 seconds.

APPROVAL SEEN NEAR FOR HOUSING BILL

constructed under the federal program.

Walsh introduced an amendment to require elimination of slums in an amount substantially equal to the new housing.

"Slum eradication should come ahead of rehousing," he told the senate.

Walsh also proposed a reduction in the income limit for families eligible to occupy government-subsidized homes. The bill as written would restrict occupancy to families whose income was not in excess of five times the rental, or six times if the family had three or more minor dependents.

Under the Walsh amendment the ratio would be reduced to three times the rent for the smaller families and five times for the larger families.

REPUBLIC DENIES LABOR CHARGES

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Aug 3—Republic Steel Corp attacked the complaint of unfair labor practices filed against it by the national labor relations board today and asked for its dismissal on the ground that the national labor relations act if enforced, would deprive employers of due process of law.

The corporation denied almost all of the allegations in the complaint in an answer which was sent by registered mail to Washington and the labor board's regional office here.

Pan American Airways, the routes of which cover Cristobal, the west coast of South America and Buenos Aires over the Andes, is a separate company from Pan American, but P A A holds an interest in P A Grace.

Information received at MacGregor's office was that in addition to navy planes, a Pan American Airways four motored "clipper ship," a Ford tri motor landplane used for cargo work and a two motor Sikorsky flying boat similar to the missing airplane had been sent on a search for the machine.

Dunn has been on the Cristobal-Ecuador run for six years. The service is operated twice a week.

Recently P. A-Grace inaugurated new and faster schedules on its routes.

Pan American Airways has not lost a passenger in its several years' operations in the Caribbean and along the east coast of South America.

MOON AND VENUS HOLD RENDEZVOUS

Heavenly Tryst Observed By Delaware Scientist.

By The Associated Press
DELAWARE, O, Aug 3—Venus and the moon got together early today and masqueraded as a sort of heavenly fraternal emblem.

Observers said that for several hours the planet appeared as a brilliant star within the crescent tips of the first-quarter moon.

Actually, said Dr. Ernest H Cherrington, of the Perkins observatory of Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan universities, the two bodies were in occulation. That is, the moon obscured the planet for a time, and then, as the planet emerged, it seemed to hang on the moon's edge.

The occurrence is fairly uncommon but not especially noteworthy from the astronomers point of view, he said.

Nine persons responded to the altar call at the Second Pilgrim Holiness church revival service last night. The evangelist, Rev. Jack Donovan of Frankfort, Ind., preached from Luke 16:23, "And in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments."

Edward Moran, 15-year-old boy preacher from Newark, O., led in prayer and his brother Stanton, 13, sang two selections, playing his own guitar accompaniment. Services will be held each night this week at 7.30.

BORAH SAYS THERE IS NO VACANCY IN COURT

Cites Impeachment, Resignation or Death as Only Separation from Tribunal.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug 3—Senator Borah Republican of Idaho, told the senate today there was no vacancy in the supreme court for President Roosevelt to fill.

Borah, recognized as one of the senate's leading constitutional authorities, took the floor at the outset of today's session to continue yesterday's debate on the subject of when the President should fill the vacancy on the court caused by the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter.

Attorney General Cummings had ruled the President could make a recess appointment and need not nominate a justice before congress adjourns.

Referring to the vacancy as a "supposed vacancy," the Idaho senator said:

"I want to invite the senate's attention to the fact that in my opinion there is no vacancy. I do not think there is any vacancy to fill and I wish to urge that for the consideration of the senate.

"It will become an acute question when the President sends in an appointment."

Borah said he would not be "greatly surprised" if Attorney General Cummings "had this in view" when he advised President Roosevelt he could delay the nomination until congress adjourns.

"There are only three ways a justice can be separated from the court," Borah continued "by impeachment, by resignation or by death. There is no other way."

Van Devanter retired from the supreme court under the recently enacted law permitting justices to retire at full pay after 10 years of age.

Administration leaders decided to call up the judiciary procedure bill after a vote on the Wagner housing bill, expected in mid afternoon.

It provides for speeding appeals from lower federal courts and for letting the attorney general enter suits involving constitutionality of federal laws.

Sen Burke, Democrat of Nebraska, served notice that he would vote against confirmation of any appointee who took office without waiting for senate confirmation. Sen Vandenberg Republican of Michigan, hinted he might take the same position.

LIQUIDATION OF TWO BANKS NEARS FINISH

obligations will face legal action of whatever type is necessary."

Thus far the 1,300 depositors of the Savings bank have been paid 43 per cent or about $162,000. On hand now is approximately $15,000 in cash, according to records of Mr. White. In addition to the cash, the liquidator has on hand several properties and the mortgage notes. No estimate of the value of the properties or of the notes was available.

The properties will be offered at public auction at 10 a. m. Aug 13 at the liquidation office at 132 North Main street. They are located at 228 St James street, the northeast corner of Prospect and Smith streets 162 Blaine avenue, 624 Ballentine avenue, the Slade property in Prospect village, and the Baptist parsonage at 910 North Main street.

"These properties must bring a reasonable figure and will not be sold at ridiculously low prices," Mr Brown said, indicating that many persons have the mistaken impression that holdings of closed banks are being sold at any price. The highest bidder will receive the property, subject to the approval of common pleas court. Both bulk and units bids will be taken.

Interested persons may call at the liquidation office from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m daily for information about their indebtedness or about the properties.

In connection with the indebtedness of the aproximately 200 persons, Mr Brown stated that it may be possible for them to compromise their debts with the liquidation on approval of common pleas court. He pointed out that it is to the advantage of such debtors to settle immediately since at the close of the "clean-up" campaign in about three months, the remaining assets will be sold in bulk to the highest bidder and the outstanding notes might fall into the hands of a collection agency or a company interested only in getting as much from the assets as possible.

As many of the debtors as possible will be contacted by Mr. Brown within the next few weeks in an effort to work out individual settlements.

avenue, Mrs Edna Jennings of Franklin street, Herbert Poorman of Kenmore avenue and Mrs Nina Petrie of Akron.

Mr Zimmerman from his long experience in handling labor disputes has become a firm believer in the principles of fairness and cooperation between employer and employe and has conducted his office by appealing to reason rather than force.

Radicalism and force have no place in his contacts with the Erie system on behalf of the conductors' order.

"I've learned that the things you gain by force disappear when your force wears out—and sooner or later it will wear out if your policy is to get things that way."

The history of Mr Zimmerman's career as a railroad man is related in an article in the August issue of the Erie Railroad Magazine. It appears on page 23 and is accompanied by his picture.

As a trustee of the conductors' organization Mr Zimmerman and two fellow trustees made periodical audits of the financial transactions. The order has assets of $6,000,000. As chairman for the Erie system, he has handled countless grievances of Erie employes.

MRS. EDDIE DUCHIN DIES IN NEW YORK

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug 3—Mrs Eddie Duchin, wife of the orchestra leader, died today in Harbor sanitarium from complications following the birth of a son last Wednesday.

Duchin was at his wife's bedside at the time of death. He had flown here by airplane last night from Chicago where he is playing an engagement.

The baby, who weighed nine pounds at birth, is well and strong, according to attaches of the sanitarium.

Mrs Duchin, the former Miss Marjorie Oelrichs, a society beauty, underwent a series of blood transfusions in an effort to save her life. She and Duchin were married June 5, 1935.

NEW YORK POULTRY RACKET SHATTERED

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Special Prosecutor Thomas E Dewey has won another victory in his campaign to rid New York City of major racketeering.

Arthur "Tootsie" Herbert, 38, "czar of the poultry industry," and two other defendants accused of poultry racketeering pleaded guilty yesterday to embezzling thousands of dollars from the Chicken Driver, Chauffeurs and Helpers Union, No. 167.

INCREASE IN SALARY ADVISED BY HUDSON

tion and probably one history post.

Harry J Barnhart, president of the board, while recommending no action on Mr Hudson's discussion of the teacher-pay problem, said "Our salvation is in people who like Marion and want to stay here because it is home—regardless of our salaries."

He said that pay in Marion is the equivalent of a much higher pay in larger cities in view of lower living costs here. The discussion brought out that board members believe that Marion's young men and women are generally capable teachers.

Large Turnover

Mr Hudson said he had received word from a Columbus educator that this year has brought a larger turnover in industrial arts than has occurred in the last decade. Mr Hudson said the shortage of qualified teachers is especially noticeable in the specialized fields, chiefly in trade subjects which many schools dropped during the depression and now are resuming.

The improvement in business generally has also been responsible for the loss of many women teachers by marriage their fiances being financially able to marry now, Mr Hudson said.

Generally elsewhere teachers are enjoying raises in pay, Mr. Hudson told the board. The Marion teachers are still 10 per cent below their pre-depression scale despite a boost this spring. Another increase, should it come, would not be more than the 10 per cent, Mr. Hudson believes.

Other action by the board yesterday included passing a resolution to borrow, if necessary, by issuing notes against $18,182.70 certified in June to the local schools by the state school foundation as a quarterly payment; considered boosting the pay of service employes in proportion to the recent increase for the teaching staff, authorized purchase of a pump for the stadium, considered the bids of two Marion banks for depositories and decided to see what Columbus banks can offer.

The resolution to borrow against the $18,182.70 certification is a formality according to Clerk Frank C. Gegenheimer in order to insure actual payment of the certification by the state. Mr. Gegenheimer said the state will pay first to school districts which have passed resolutions indicating they intended to borrow against them, and that schools which have not passed such resolutions will be paid later as funds permit.

He said it probably will not be necessary to borrow. A similar procedure was followed by the board this spring.

Another Meeting Soon

The board will meet again shortly in an adjourned session to consider pay hoosts for service employes janitors and so forth. The pay range now is from $85 to $105 as compared with $90 and $130 in 1929.

Provisions of a new state law setting up a retirement system for service employes will also be considered. Only one employe now would be retired by the law which provides compulsory retirement at 70 and optional at 60. Mr. Hudson expressed doubt as to the workability of the law, which is to become effective Sept. 1. He said no reserve fund has been built up for payment of pensions and that he can see no way to pay them immediately.

Depository bids in accordance with new state and federal laws, effective Aug 23 which prohibit bank members of the federal reserve and federal deposit insurance corporation from paying interest on active accounts and limit the amount on inactive accounts, were opened.

One from the Marion County bank offered no interest for two years on active accounts, the maximum amount on deposit to be $50,000. It offered one-fourth of one per cent interest on inactive deposits subject to 30 day notice of withdrawal.

The National City Bank & Trust Co. offered the same bid with the exception that $100,000 was fixed as the maximum amount to be on active deposit.

Board members decided to contact Columbus banks to see what interest they would offer on inactive deposits.

The board also approved additional securities offered by the County bank to protect an increase of $11,000 in school funds on deposit.

Appropriations

Additional appropriations from a fund of approximately $25,000 which was not appropriated early this year in the regular appropriation resolution were approved by the board. The amounts for different purposes were not specified, the clerk being authorized to make such appropriations as he felt necessary for several funds which are overdrawn or depleted.

The new pump for the stadium, to cost approximately $350, will be used for pressure for showers and watering. It will be a deep-well pump with a capacity of 500 gallons an hour and will be equipped with a 220 gallon storage tank.

The board also expressed satisfaction over the direction of the Harding bond by Homer E. Huffman and agreed to supply him with whatever instruments he needs to build it to full strength.

11-YEAR-OLD BRIDE'S HUSBAND JAILED

By The Associated Press
POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Aug 3—Prosecuting Attorney Randolph Weber filed perjury charges today against William H Grimes 67, cotton picker, as an aftermath of Grimes' marriage last week to Mary Frances Alexander, who Weber asserted is 11 years old.

The girl who weighs 52 pounds and is slightly more than four feet tall, was placed in the custody of juvenile authorities after she was in jail here. Weber charged Grimes gave the girl's age as 18 when he applied for a marriage license.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

(Copyright, 1937, Marie de Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: Ray Crandon of the Lazy Nine impulsively hires Ted Gaynor, a jobless puncher. He helps her fight Josh Hastings, a "friendly" neighbor who wants to buy her ranch and marry Kay. Ted pummels Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. A girl named Marion finds Ted and her nursing saves his life. He is arrested and about to be convicted of Scrap's murder when Kay stops the trial by a technical protest. Hastings kidnaps Kay, locks her in a cellar and tries to force her to agree to marriage.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

Kay's In Trouble

TED'S first reaction, when Joe had taken him back to his cell and left him, was an immense relief and thankfulness for the delay that, for the moment, crowded out thoughts of anything else.

There was no doubt in Ted's mind that if the case had gone to the jury then, the verdict would have been guilty. But for Kay, all hope would be gone.

For a few minutes, thoughts of Kay filled his mind. How sweet she had looked! And how hurt and wistful her eyes had been as they met his hard, scornful glance that passed her by. Yet, how could she expect him to look or feel any other way? In spite of his deep resentment against Kay, he felt a glow of pride as he remembered how straight and defiant she had stood, as she challenged Sam Cutter.

She hadn't stopped to measure what people might think after that remark of Sam Cutter's about Ted having fought Scrap Johnson for something he had said about a "red-headed filly!" Naturally, every one would know she was the girl involved, after that. But, in spite of it she had proudly ignored the possibility of gossip, and had gained him this respite.

Ted's eyes narrowed, as he focussed his thought on just what advantage the change of venue of the trial might bring him. His first instinctive relief was premature, after all. The same forces that had undermined him here, would be brought to bear at the new trial. And if the jury in Idaho had not been impressed with the truth of his story, why did he hope to impress a Montana jury?

Ted clenched his hand and struck it fiercely against his cot as though sealing a sudden decision. Just sitting passively was not going to get him out of this mess! He'd had proof at this trial that the knowledge of his own innocence wasn't enough; and while he stayed in jail, how was he ever going to find new evidence to convince any one else of it?

For the thousandth time, he prowled around his cell, trying to find some loophole of escape. He could hear the crowds that had come out of the court room tramping past outside. Through the small grated window, high up in one side, he could catch bits of conversation and comments about the trial, but there was no chance there of making a break. Even if he could have succeeded in wrenching the grating out of place, the opening was too small for him to squeeze himself through.

Some way or other, he must find his chance while they were transporting him from Idaho over into Montana. He must play the role of being passively acquiescent, and then watch his chance to make a break.

For a long time he thought out the possible openings there might be. When Joe brought him his lunch, he tried to find out whether they were going to take him around by train, or over the trail on horseback. But if Joe knew, he refused to tell.

Two Voices

It was along some time in the afternoon that Ted's attention was attracted by two voices, in angry altercation outside his window. The crowds had ceased to pass by, and the small alley way that ran along the side of the jail had long since been deserted and quiet.

Impelled by a sudden curiosity, Ted dragged his cot over under the window, and stood up on it to listen to what the two men below were saying. The window was too high for him to see out, but he could distinctly hear their voices, which had now dropped to hoarse whispers.

"Shut up, I tell yuh'" one of them growled. "I won't go divies with yuh at all, if yuh're goin' to be a fool."

"The red head was a dead game little sport," the other voice protested, and at his words, Ted's idle curiosity changed to tense attention. "I'm for getting her out a mess like that."

"Yuh do, and everything's over between us!" The first voice growled. "And when I say 'over,' I mean 'over'. Get me?"

Ted heard a shuffling movement then the second voice gave sullen assent.

"All right. Have it your own way! Where'd you say she was?"

"I ain't just rightly sure. Here's the story. I was upstairs in Red's joint, looking out the window and I seen the kid that upset the trial running down the street. All of a sudden, she falls flat, and this Hastings guy, who's been running after her, picks her up, and pitches her into his car and heads for the north end of the town. Being kind of curious, I gets down in record time and on my caynse that's waiting there, and points after him. He's got too much head start though, and I loses track of him."

"I'm just about deciding that there's no business in it for me when I sees his car headed for the station. The Overland's just about due, and I gives chase. He leaves his car this side of the track an' runs over to the platform where there's quite a crowd millin' about, thats come from the trial. The train comes in, before I gets across the track, and while I'm waitin' for it to pass, I have a look at the car. It's empty."

"I hang around until the train has started, and he comes back talking with a guy. He says, 'I've just got Kay Crandon off on a train.' That's where I smells a rat in earnest, because I know damn well he hasn't got her off on the train. So, I high-tails it back to the north end of town, and do a bit of investigating on my own. And I'm satisfied he's got her hid in Ran Simpkin's deserted blacksmith shop there. That information's worth money, boy. And he's got enough dough to pay through the nose!"

Standing at rigid attention through this recital, Ted felt a surge of rage through him that sent the blood pounding into his head, so that for a moment the sound of the voice outside was drowned out. When he heard them again, they were moving off, and had changed the subject.

"Yeah. The fire's been burning five days, now. Creepin' up toward the Bitter Root, they say. They sent out a call for Runyon to—" the voices died off in the distance. Ted, after listening to the retreating footsteps, stepped heavily down from the cot.

"He'll Go Easy Enough"

The astonishing information that he had overheard filled Ted with desperate resolve. If he had determined to make a break before it was a thousand times more necessary now.

All memory of Kay's treacherous betrayal of his hiding place was wiped out of his mind, as Ted thought of her present predicament. The fact that she was at Josh Hastings' mercy made it all the more devastating. Somehow, somehow, he had to get free to save her!

He dragged his cot back to its orig'nal position, and paced back and forth, listening with strained nerves for any sound in the corridor. At last a door opened at the far end, and he heard Sam Cutter's voice, then the tramp of footsteps.

"Hell go easy enough," Sam Cutter was saying. "Too bad you missed taking him on the Overland, but you'll make better time now, cutting across the mountains. You can take the same horse that brought him over."

"O.K." Zeke Farley answered. "Which cell is he in?"

Ted dropped down on his cot and looked up with an expression of stupid apathy as the two sheriffs appeared at the door.

"Why in hell couldn't you have finished up the trial here?" he demanded irritably. "For Pete's sake get a move on and get me over to Montana where I can get this business cleared up once and for all!"

Sam Cutter threw a significant look toward Zeke Farley as though saying, "You see! I told you, you wouldn't have any trouble."

"Believe me, we're not wasting any time." Zeke Farley stepped over to Ted. "How about my putting you on parole?"

"I got here all right, didn't I?" Ted snapped. "Ask the sheriff there."

"Sure he did," Sam Cutter answered, adding with thinly veiled sarcasm, "I'm not afraid of a prisoner giving me the slip, when I've got my gun on me!"

"Neither am I," Zeke Farley countered grimly. "Come on."

In a daring break, Ted escapes, tomorrow.

PROSPECT GUILD IS ENTERTAINED

The Rowrve guild of the Prospect Baptist church held a picnic supper meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Ivo Johnston of the Ashley-Norton road. A short business session was conducted by the president, Miss Harriet Beery, in which arrangements were made to attend a house party Aug. 14-16 at Richwood. The evening was spent socially. A meeting will be held Sept. 8 with Miss Helen Cox of Prospect.

DELEGATES NAMED TO VETS' MEETING

Police Chief W. E. Marks, Dr. H. A. Hoopes of LaRue and Edwin Harrold were elected delegates to the national promenade of 40 et 8, starting Sept. 12, in New York City at a meeting of Marion Voiture 48 last night at the Legion Dugout.

Glen Allen, E. W. Solomon and T. E. Kinnear were elected alternates. Progress was reported in rebuilding the box car and locomotive to take to the state promenade this month in Columbus and to the national meeting next month. A partial report was made on the boat races held recently. The next meeting will be held in September.

FOUR INITIATED AT GRANGE MEETING

Four candidates were initiated Friday night at a meeting of the Bowling Green juvenile grange held at the grange hall south of Lafun. Those initiated are Dollie Boyles, John Boyles, David Boyles and John Anawalt.

Descriptions of weeds reported to be doing damage in the county were given in response to roll call. A committee headed by Edna Heller served refreshments. Officers of the grange will present the program at the next meeting on Friday, Aug. 13. Roll call responses will be "My Hobby."

Guardians of the Highways.

No unit in public life has justified its existence more definitely and conclusively than the state highway patrol. Misgivings on the part of some who opposed its establishment on the ground it would become a state police system for use in industrial disorder have been disproved completely.

The state patrol which rides the highways has won commendation from the people of Ohio as a whole because it has attended to its own business and has attended to it well.

Composed of young men of unusual physical and mental fitness, thoroughly trained and strictly disciplined, the state patrol has made the highways vastly safer. It has prevented accidents by its careful watch on traffic and it has minimized suffering resulting from accidents because its men are all trained and equipped to give first aid when it is most needed.

They are courteous in a businesslike way that commands respect. They have enforced safety rules with universal common sense. It would be hard to find in all of Ohio any lawabiding motorist who would want to return to the days when traffic regulation was a haphazard matter in the hands of the local police authorities of each community.

Out of the War Zone.

A state of war doubtless exists in parts of China regardless of the fact no formal declaration has been made. Americans who remain in the war zone are in danger to themselves and their presence leads to worry lest this country become seriously involved.

American troops are on duty in China as they have been much of the time since this country banded with other nations to protect their citizens during the Boxer uprising of 1900.

Unless hostilities are ended very quickly the people of this country want both their citizens and their soldiers out of the war zone.

Oil company property in China can not be moved to safety but Americans do not want soldiers left there to protect it. The commanding officer of a U. S. regiment in Tientsin cables that he is affording every possible protection to Americans. The best possible protection would be to escort them to U. S. battleships and bring them home until peace is restored. If this is done there will be no occasion for sending more U. S. soldiers over there now or in the future.

Permanents in Prison.

It is surprising that the story of a beauty parlor in operation in the state reformatory for women at Marysville should have been received with such amazement. It seems that the public should have taken it for granted that services of this kind are available to the girls and women Ohio is trying to remake into good citizens.

Pride in personal appearance is one of the fundamentals of that self respect which is so essential to right living. Nothing will defeat the upbuilding of character more surely than the necessity of a dowdy appearance.

Prisoners, either men or women, fit themselves to return to society when they learn to look and act like other men and women. To the latter this means the opportunity to be waved and manicured.

Certainly every girl in Marysville deserves the opportunity to look her best. Mrs. Marguerite Reilly, the sensible superintendent, will accomplish more good with finger waves than she could with lectures and rules of conduct.

She knows that to look right is one of the first steps in living right.

For Convenience.

The airline stewardess—or hostess—already is taken for granted. She has earned her place.

She is asked now to move over to make room for her sister who works in the railroad train. Buses probably will be next.

The function of these willing workers in the modern scheme of things is to make the traveler's journey more pleasant—just that, no more. It has been a long time since the traveler bought a place and was expected to make the most of the inconveniences which he knew would follow.

What sociologists cover broadly in the phrase "service industries" is spreading like ground ivy, making living more pleasant here and there, creating new employment opportunities and adding bit by bit to the fabric of a more advanced civilization.

If you don't believe it, here's a paragraph from the description of qualifications for a railroad stewardess: "The chief duty of the stewardess, who is also a registered nurse, is to look after the comforts of passengers, particularly of women and children. She has a liking for people and a desire to be of service wherever needed; to help the very young, the very old, women travelers, children journeying alone, and inexperienced travelers journeying to new places for the first time."

The Court Appointment

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1937, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—President Roosevelt has been advised that he can defeat the will of the United States senate and appoint a member of the supreme court of the United States after congress adjourns for its present session and that the appointment will hold good until the end of the next session, which might be until the summer of 1938.

Thus, without allowing the United States senate to express its advice and consent as required by the Constitution, the President is being told a justice can serve on the supreme court for a whole term of the court which runs from October to June.

The precise point at issue—when a vacancy must be filled—has never been passed upon by the supreme court of the United States itself and there are an many good legal grounds for arguing that Attorney General Cummings has rendered the wrong advice as to suggest that his opinion is conclusive.

The Constitution's language is as follows:

"The President shall have power to fill up vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session."

The question is what does the word "happen" really mean? It is insisted by the administration that the word may be construed to mean all vacancies "that may happen to exist during the recess of the senate."

This interpretation, however, arises from a peculiar set of circumstances in a given case which in reality does not apply at all to the present situation. Back in 1840, a vacancy occurred in the office of United States district attorney, and, in those days, the circuit judges had power to fill the vacancies. Henry Farrow was the incumbent. When his term expired, a circuit judge appointed him to fill the vacancy. Then the President came along with another appointment, namely John Bigby, and the nomination was sent to the senate while that body was in session, but failed of action. A dispute arose as to the power of the President to make a recess appointment for Mr. Bigby. Clearly this is different from the circumstances existing today with respect to Justice Van Devanter who retired from the supreme court on June 2 during a session of the senate, and no nomination has been made by the President.

Reasoning Rejected

Yet, in the Farrow case, which was decided by Judge Woods for the circuit court, northern district of Georgia, constituting really the highest federal court ruling available, the opinion of the court, instead of supporting, really rejects the reasoning of those who insist that "happen" means in all cases "happens to exist" during a recess of the senate.

Judge Woods quoted with approval the opinion of William Wirt, attorney general under President Monroe. Said Mr. Wirt:

"The Constitution does not look to the moment of origin of the vacancy but to the state of things at the point of time at which the President is called upon to act. Is the senate in session? Then he must make a nomination to that body. Is it in recess? Then the President must fill the vacancy by a temporary commission. This seems to me to be the only construction of the Constitution which is compatible with its spirit, reason and purpose, while at the same time it offers no violence to its language, and these are, I think, the governing points to which all sound construction looks."

Judge Woods pointed out that this opinion was concurred in by Roger Taney when he was attorney general under President Jackson, the same man who was later chief justice. But Mr. Taney used the idea of "happen to exist" to cover an entirely different set of circumstances than prevail today. He declared that the clause in the Constitution was intended to provide "for those vacancies which might arise from accident, and the contingencies to which human affairs must always be liable." Mr. Taney's point was that, if, by some mischance, a nomination was omitted by a president through no deliberate intention, then a vacancy might be said to happen to exist. He added:

"If it falls out that from death, inadvertence, or mistake, an office required by law to be filled, is in recess, found to be vacant, then a vacancy has happened during the recess and the President may fill it."

This reasoning was tied closely to the notion that a nomination sent to the senate might fail of confirmation and that a recess appointment would then be in order. This power is not questioned now, but the new issue is whether a President, fully cognizant of the existence of a vacancy, refuses to send a nomination to the senate, makes a recess appointment and then refuses to withdraw the appointment if it is not confirmed by the senate and keeps his appointment on the supreme court throughout a full term of the court.

Incidentally, congress itself has by law indicated that it does not approve of persons taking office who are not confirmed when there has been a chance for them to win confirmation. The revised statutes of the United States ever since 1869 have provided:

"No money shall be paid from the treasury as a salary to any person appointed during the recess of the senate, to fill a vacancy in any existing office, if the vacancy existed while the senate was in session, and was by law required to be filled by and with the advice and consent of the senate, until such appointee has been confirmed by the senate."

Colorado Decision

The most important court decision of recent years bearing on the point at issue was in Colorado in 1925 when a clause in the state constitution, virtually the same as that in the federal constitution, was construed by the supreme court of Colorado to mean that, once a vacancy occurs during a session of the upper house of the legislature, a nomination must then be made or else a recess appointment is barred. The Colorado legislature met on January 7, 1925, and sat in continuous session till April 17, 1925. But notwithstanding that a vacancy occurred in the state board of land commissioners on January 13, 1925, the governor waited until April 16, 1925, the very day the senate was preparing to adjourn, and the nomination was left unacted upon for lack of time. The supreme court of Colorado refused to recognize a recess appointment, saying:

"It cannot be disputed that it is the governor's constitutional duty to nominate to the senate when it is in session and upon their consent to appoint to fill every vacant office.... It follows that the governor cannot make an ad interim appointment in the present case but must await the session of the senate or call a special session."

There is another very important point involved in the present controversy. Virtually all the opinions of past attorneys general relate to recess appointments of officers who are not specifically mentioned in the constitution, such as supreme court judges, ambassadors and ministers. Rarely does a foreign ambassador go to his post except with senate confirmation. Even though President Lincoln's attorney general ruled that a recess appointment of a supreme court justice could be made, it so happens that the appointee did not take his seat till he was confirmed by the senate. The precedent since the days when a recess appointment of Judge Rutledge in Washington's administration was rejected by the senate has been for justices to await confirmation by the senate even though appointed during a recess. Would Mr. Roosevelt insist that his appointee take his seat, and if the new justice refused to do so would the President withdraw the nomination and select some one else? To prevent this kind of controversy, Senator Vandenberg has asked the present session of the senate to go on record as opposing a recess appointment, inasmuch as there is time for a regular nomination to be sent to the senate.

On Guard in China

By The Associated Press

THE protection of some 800 American citizens in bullet-peppered Peiping lies in the large, capable hands of cool-headed Col. John Marston, veteran officer of the United States Marine Corps.

Officers at marine headquarters in Washington say that Marston, commander of the detachment of 490 "devil dogs" at the American embassy in the ancient Chinese capital, can be counted on to exercise alertness and good judgment in looking after the safety of the strife-beleaguered Americans.

COL. MARSTON.

Colonel Marston is a six-foot, 200 pounder, of jovial disposition who has been in "nasty situations" before and has a way of winning the good will of foreign soldiers and citizens. He has had considerable service in foreign countries at periods when the anti-American spirit was running strong among the natives.

In 1914 he participated in the occupation of Vera Cruz, Mexico, and the engagement in connection with that expedition. From 1915 to 1918 he served in troubled Hawaii, taking part in operations against insurrectionary forces and was cited for meritorious service there.

He commanded the marine detachment at the American legation, Managua, Nicaragua, from 1922 to 1924, and was commended by the major general commandant of the marine corps for the energy, good judgment and tact which he displayed.

From 1929 to 1931 he was attached to the Nicaraguan national guard, and for his services received the Nicaraguan medal of distinction and the Nicaraguan medal of merit.

Colonel Marston, who is 52 years old, hails from Germantown, Pa. He was appointed a second lieutenant in the marine corps 29 years ago and was made a colonel in 1935. He has been in command of the marines at Peiping since April of this year.

HIGHEST ranking American military officer in the war-clouded Far East is Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic fleet of the United States navy.

Yarnell is a 62-year-old, Iowa-born "salt," who has sailed the seven seas and loves the life of a sailor. As a cadet engineer he was aboard the battleship Oregon when it made its famous voyage around the Horn at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

ADM. YARNELL.

His flagship, the heavy cruiser Augusta, has sailed north, but Admiral Yarnell can get in immediate touch by radio with the American embassy in Peiping where Col. John Marston and his small detachment of marines are protecting 800 marooned American citizens. Yarnell also maintains radio contact with naval headquarters in Washington.

Fellow officers say he is an ideal combination of the seadog and student of international affairs which have a bearing on naval problems. He was a naval adviser at the London treaty conference in 1930 where he became acquainted with several Japanese naval officers who now have positions of high command.

Admiral Yarnell has a great enthusiasm for flying and is particularly proud of the navy's air force, rated the foremost in the world. He frequently accompanies naval flights on scouting trips over the Pacific.

During the World war he was on the staff of the late Admiral Sims, commander of American naval forces in European waters. Yarnell is rated one of the foremost authorities on the hydrography, as well as the economic possibilities, of the Philippines.

Today in Ohio History

The diplomatic side of the Spanish-American war was carried on for the United States largely by Ohioans. President McKinley was an Ohioan by birth, John Hay, his secretary of state, was a resident of Ohio and William R. Day, the chairman of the Peace commission, was born at Ravenna, O.

Although he served as secretary of state for a time, Day's chief work was that as chairman of the commission which had to work out an agreement between victor and vanquished. On Aug. 8 1898 Spain accepted the peace proposal of the United States, although some time passed before a final settlement was made.

New Kind of Protection

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Much light was cast upon the true character of the wages and hours bill by the action of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. Mr. Lodge introduced an amendment which would have forbidden the importation of goods from any foreign country in excess of the average for the past five years unless it can be proven to the labor standards board that the goods were produced under conditions at least as good as those prevailing in this country. The amendment was defeated, though the bill as passed contains an invitation to raise the American tariff.

The interesting thing about Mr. Lodge's amendment is that it defines so clearly the directing sentiment behind the bill. It is the desire to create a legally protected area for the maintenance of the relatively higher wages of the northern industrial states. Mr. Lodge, though he was defeated on his amendment, voted for the bill. Mr. Lodge is a Republican from Massachusetts, and yet no scruples about delegating power, about centralizing power, about any of the other principles that Republicans profess, deterred him from voting for the bill.

Why? Because Senator Lodge inherits and firmly believes in the tariff philosophy of his party. And he saw, much more clearly than the liberals who supported the bill, that in effect it means the establishment of an internal protective tariff system within the United States. Being a dyed-in-the-wool protectionist, Mr. Lodge not only wishes to exclude imports from foreign countries but turns rather gladly to the idea of erecting barriers to the free exchange of goods within the United States. This bill provides for the creation of what might be called regional tariffs designed to "protect" the older industrial regions from the competition of the newer ones.

Given his economic philosophy, which is that of the Hawley-Smoot tariff carried to its logical extreme, Mr. Lodge was quite right in voting for the wages and hours bill.

If that bill is really made effective, that is to say, if it does not break down as NRA broke down, the sponsors will have succeeded in doing what the federal Constitution was designed to prevent. They will have found a way of impairing freedom of trade not only with the outer world but within the boundaries of the union. On the pretext that they are improving labor conditions in the poorer regions, they will by a maze of regulations and orders erect all manner of barriers to trade within the nation.

I do not know whether on this ground the bill can be attacked successfully as unconstitutional. But I think it is clear that if this bill stands, and is enforced and expanded, it will violate one of the clearest purposes, perhaps the dominating purpose, of the men who created the federal union. For it was their unmistakable intention to establish within the borders of the United States an area of complete free trade, and to this end they forbade the states to create internal tariffs. They would, I think, have been astonished to learn that the federal government in the guise of regulating labor conditions, could itself establish the regional tariffs that no state may establish of its own accord.

Clothes Don't Worry Rudy

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Rudy Vallee, for years America's No. 1 Heart Throb, is the despair of his valet, his girl friends, business associates and tailors. He is the least clothes conscious of the celebrities, refusing to submit to more than one fitting when he freshens his wardrobe.

Photographers who take his picture for publicity purposes always have to tidy him up before pressing their bulbs when he comes for a sitting. He is good natured about it and submits to their suggestions but left to his own devices, he's soon back in the old sartorial rut.

He once appeared at a benefit in dinner jacket and tan oxfords. When chided for his dereliction he grinned sheepishly and sent out to the drug store for a bottle of black shoe polish. His most atrocious taste, however, is for neckties and he goes on a necktie shopping spree often.

The next most difficult alive, fortunately, for the photographers is Heywood Broun. He, too, is amiable about his lapses and will allow them to comb his hair, pull down his vest and indeed, if necessary send out for a barber and pair of suspenders to supplant the familiar belt.

Snoring is a common difficulty passed over lightly but there are exceptions. Indeed snorers who have found their affliction a cross. There is, for instance, an industrialist from Toledo who, when he comes to New York, goes to a private home in a far reach of Brooklyn to sleep because of his stentorian snores. The woman who rents him the room is totally deaf. Several times he has been asked to leave hotels on account of complaints. Two operations have offered him no relief.

Since Dashiell Hammett, once a Pinkerton detective, made such a ten strike writing mystery stories magazine editors say they have been flooded with manuscripts from professional crime hunters. But so far no rival to Hammett. The fact is that most of the great mystery stories through the ages have been written by men and women who have led cloistered lives with practically no contact with criminals or the art of tracking them. The real trick in the mystery story is not so much plot as suspense. Once a writer has made a reader feel that emotion of suspense he need worry little about the weakness or absurdity of plot.

Mystery story writing has always struck me the most engaging of literary pursuits. In no other branch of the trade do writers have so much fun. Usually they find it so attractive they like aloof mostly in remote sections of the country. The illustrious example of the art is, of course, E. Phillips Oppenheim, who has his chateau in France, country estate in England, a yacht and gathers most of his material watching the fashionables around the gaming tables at Monte Carlo. He has rarely worked more than four hours a day and at 70 is still eager to set down his imaginary adventures.

The late Arthur Somers Roche liked to plot his mystery yarns but disliked the actual writing and put it off until editors were off his neck. Agatha Christie writes most of her tales late at night. She believes night is the most mysterious period and that a writer naturally absorbs this atmosphere. Rex Stout is also another late-at-night writer and, of course, the master of them all, Poe, wrote best at night by a flickering candle with a storm raging.

I heard of a private home on upper Park avenue the other day that is staffed with 19 servants for a family of five. A housekeeper does all the employing and for keeping things running smoothly is paid $10,000 a year and given her own apartment with a secretary-maid. The family has seven automobiles and four chauffeurs. Three months a year they spend in Europe but keep their servants during the absence.

There is Burt MacBride's silly about a befuddled group in a bar at midnight. Suddenly the door opened and a voice shouted: "McGuire, your house is on fire." One of the party dashed out and, after running break-neck for a block, suddenly stopped and exclaimed: "Hell, my name isn't McGuire."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Aug. 3, 1917.

Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, commanding the German forces in Flanders, issued a brief but significant command to a war council of German military and naval leaders meeting in Brussels. It was, "Hold your lines at any cost," and the words were immediately flashed up and down the German front in Flanders where one of the greatest conflicts of the war was in progress. Savage German counter-attacks were immediately launched.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rockenbaugh of Belvidere avenue and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Tubbs of Elm and Fairground street.

The patriotism theme was beginning to enter into Marion social affairs. One of the first events connected with war preparedness was a lawn party given at the David Evans home, Limestone Place, on St. James street as a benefit for the Red Cross.

Tiffin To Play at Marion in Double Bill Wednesday

Rattan Floors Watters in Lively Wrestle Tilt

Silent Rattan's two-fall victory over Teddy Watters and Referee Red Moon's handling of the match between "The Spook" and Bunny Martin, which the latter won by disqualification, featured last night's session of the grunt and groan society at the outdoor arena on Uncapher avenue.

Moon, after allowing about everything in the books to pass unnoticed, finally called a halt to the Martin-Spook match when the masked one began handing out what were decidedly low knee jolts. The disqualification came in the third round after each combatant had taken a fall each.

Silent Rattan renewed acquaintance with old timers here by displaying all the cleverness at his command in taking Teddy Watters of Gallup, N. M., for a one-way ride. The mule grappler sparred and blocked his way to the top after conceding his opponent a considerable weight advantage. Rattan's two-fall victory came unexpectedly and he received plaudits of the audience for his clever performance.

The Spook, whom many fans have identified in their own minds as the rough and ugly Lon Chaney of Indianapolis, started his rough stuff with the opening bell. He was outwrestled by Oklahoma's Martin, but won the first fall after nearly losing his all-concealing mask. The Spook scored the first fall on a alligator clutch after he had practically paralyzed Martin's arm with hammerlock and muscle pounder. The initial round was timed in 17 minutes.

Martin took plenty of rough treatment from his masked opponent in the second and started a barrage that evened the score. A pair of shoulder butts, followed up with a right jab to the jaw and a rolling leg spread gave Martin the second round at the end of 11 minutes.

Spectators who hoped Moon to the dressing room may have been responsible in a small way for the official's quick action in the deciding round in disqualifying the Spook. Moon took note of the low knee jolts and handed the deciding fall and match to Martin after the round was only two minutes old.

Silent Rattan needed only 30 minutes to display his superior wrestling ability in his meeting with Teddy Watters. The Silent one was hard-pressed during most of the scrap, but managed to stalemate his opponent when he found himself in a tough spot. After 16 minutes of the first fall had elapsed, Rattan was trying to extricate himself from an arm stretch when he surprised Watters and the audience by applying a flying neck scissors that pinned the new Mexican's shoulders and won the initial fall.

Likewise in the second, Rattan seemed to have all the worst of the melee, finding himself tangled in Watters' arm and leg holds on numerous occasions. Coming out of a leg hold, Rattan grabbed Watters' wrist, pulled him full-force into a shoulder butt, and then slammed his opponent to the mat. His winning hold in the second round was the identical neck scissors with which he won the first round.

Bulgaria's Steve Nenoff won over Ned Taylor of Seattle, Wash., in 12 minutes of the scheduled 20-minute preliminary. Planting a series of punches to Taylor's neck, Nenoff polished off his opponent by using a step-over toe hold to score the fall.

WHITE SOX, YANKEES PLAY DOUBLE TODAY

Major League Teams Resume Warfare After One-Day Rest Monday.

By The Associated Press

The White Sox, who claim to be baseball's best apple-cart kickers, are in New York to meet the Yankees and teach them there's more than one club in the American League.

Only grandpappy remembers when the American League first and second place clubs were running closer than the National League leaders at this stage of the game. That's the situation today as, after a day's rest, the big league teams reopen hostilities with the White Sox-Yankee double bill heading the list.

The Sox are trailing the Yankees by five games while the Cubs top the National League and the Giants by six.

The first game on the double bill will be Lou Gehrig's 1,900th straight at first base for the Yanks. Lou will be presented a watch for having won the American League's most valuable player award in 1936.

The Cubs will try to add to their lead in a three-game series with the Phillies, which opens today, while the Giants move on to the more hopeful precincts of Cincinnati and a series with the Reds.

A pitching duel which only a few short years ago would have been widely heralded, Mel Hart vs. Lefty Rob Grove, was scheduled today as the Cleveland Indians opened a four-game series with the Boston Red Sox.

These veterans have been having their duels more or less regularly since Grove, then with Philadelphia, studied Hadley in a pitchers' battle before the 80,000 fans who saw the dedication game in Cleveland stadium several years back.

The Indians yesterday barely scored an 8 to 7 victory over a semi-pro team, the Savitt Gems, in an exhibition game at Hartford, Conn.

LOCALS SEEKING TO EXTEND FOUR-GAME SERIES OF VICTORIES

Contests Tomorrow To Begin at 1:30 P. M.; Geygan Second in Loop Batting.

Victorious in its last four games, Marion's Ohio State league baseball team will open up this week's program at Lincoln park tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by entertaining the Tiffin Mud Hens in a doubleheader.

Manager Chappie Geygan's charges have been idle since last Thursday, when they turned back the visiting Findlay Browns, 4 to 0, at Lincoln park. Previously they had beaten Fostoria two straight games, one 11 to 4 the other, 19 to 5, and scored a 4 to 3 victory over Mansfield in the nightcap of a doubleheader here July 23.

Beset by inclement weather, the team played only three games last week, and contests booked for early this week were cancelled following the death Saturday of R. R. Thompson, owner of the team. The Geygantes today were chafing at the bit in their eagerness to resume their schedule.

Tomorrow's doubleheader with Tiffin will begin at 1:30 o'clock. Fremont will play at Fostoria and Mansfield will invade Findlay in other league encounters. In the only game played yesterday, a contest which was previously postponed, Fostoria won over Fremont, 7 to 5.

Rob Rutledge, Fostoria hurler, walked 12 men and tossed four wild pitches during the game but nevertheless turned in his second victory in as many days when his teammates staged a five-run rally in the eighth inning. The winning Red Birds, now under the direction of Manager-Pitcher Red Jenkins, poled out 15 hits off two Fremont hurlers, Kleiman and Spinetti.

Boosting his batting average nine points in a week Manager Chappie Geygan of the Marion team stepped from fourth to second place in the Ohio State league slugging column. Including games of last Tuesday the Marion second baseman and pilot was clipping the ball for a .390 average being headed only by Dewey Stover, helmsman of the Mansfield Red Sox, who is hitting .396.

The averages, published by the Mansfield News-Journal reveal that four Marion sluggers are hitting over the .300 mark. Stan Platek, the right fielder with the long-distance arm, is second among the Marion batters with a .341 average. Karl Kauffman, center fielder, is third with .330 and Catcher Bill Mulvihill is fourth with .319.

Four No-Hit Hurlers and Catcher

Here are four "dream game" hurlers, each of whom pitched a no-hit game, with the catcher who caught three of them. Left to right: Wes Ferrell of Washington (with Cleveland against St. Louis in 1931), Luke Sewell, Chicago catcher (caught Kennedy, Ferrell and Dietrich); Bill Dietrich, White Sox (beat St. Louis on June 11; Vernon Kennedy, White Sox (blanked Cleveland in 1935), and Ted Lyons, White Sox (shut out Boston in 1926).

Marion Teams To Play in Galion District Tourney

Deadline for the entrance of city and county teams in the competition to select a state championship softball team has been set for Friday at 3 p. m., Elmer Shaw, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and county chairman in charge of entries, announced today.

One team, the Drake's Tavern aggregation, has already filed entrance papers for the district competition which will begin next Monday at Galion. Shaw said several others are expected to file entrance blanks before the Friday deadline.

Marion city and county entries will go directly to Galion to take part in the district softball tournament, the winner of which will be eligible to enter the state competition at Lima, starting Aug. 26.

Teams from Marion, Crawford, Knox, Morrow, Richland and Ashland counties will be competing in the district affair at Galion. Approximately 30 clubs are expected to take part. The games will be played at night under the flood lights of Heise park in Galion.

Representatives of all clubs entering are expected to be present in Galion Saturday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. for the first round drawings. Games next week are to be played at 7:30 and 8:15 o'clock, and continue daily until the final play-off.

RED BIRDS LOSE BUT STILL RETAIN LEAD

Minneapolis Hands Columbus 15-3 Defeat; Toledo Drops to Third Place.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—American Association fans — especially those who follow Columbus, Minneapolis and Toledo — are getting their money's worth in thrills this season.

The pennant race, which shows no signs of easing up from its torrid pace, today found Columbus leading the parade by only a half game, with Minneapolis only a game ahead of the third place Toledo Mud Hens.

Minneapolis, which dropped a double bill Sunday to Columbus, came back yesterday to hand the Red Birds a 15 to 3 shellacking.

The Kels pounded Max Macon star leftie, for seven runs in two innings and continued the assault against Ed Heusser and Paul Schroeder.

Fresco Thompson and George Dickey each hit home runs with the bases loaded, the former in the second off Macon and Dickey in the third against Heusser. Dickey also had another off Macon, and Cooke and Spence also hit for the circuit for the Millers.

Toledo slid out of a second place tie by losing a 3 to 1 decision to St. Paul. Diz Trout was the Iowans' hurler, while Babe Phelps won on his seven-hit performance in eight innings.

Ted Gullic and Henry Helf of Milwaukee put a story book finish to the night game in which the Brewers defeated Indianapolis 6 to 5. Going into the last of the ninth, Indianapolis led 5 to 2. Gullic then slammed a homer with one on and Helf duplicated the performance to give Milwaukee a victory.

In a second night game, Louisville made a gallant bid to pull the game out of the fire, but fell a run short in a ninth inning rally and lost to Kansas City, 8 to 7.

The loss sent the Colonels back into the cellar.

St. Mary's softball aggregation moved within striking distance of the No. 2 Sunday school league pennant by turning in its eleventh victory in 12 games last night, winning over the Lutheran entry, 8 to 2 on the President diamond.

Holding first place by a lead of two full games, the Irish team needs to win only one of the three remaining contests on the 1937 schedule to clinch a tie for the pennant. Two victories out of the three remaining games would give the St. Mary club an undisputed claim to the No. 2 league title.

In other No. 2 loop contests last night, Wesley scored a 12 to 0 victory over the Christians and Greenwood walloped the Epworth Bishops 12 to 1. Wesleys' club, beaten in only three of its 12 contests this season, is the only remaining threat against St. Mary's chances for the circuit flag.

Complete scores by innings of last night's games follow:

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Aug. 4

A RATHER eventful day, with matters of a sudden or surprising nature, is to be looked for, judging by the aspects of major planets. Transactions with large corporations, political or diplomatic circles, fraternities or with other influential contacts assume paramount importance. These should prove an expansive and mental venture, although results in withdrawal of funds and investing to speculative chances.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a series of rather sudden and surprising events, with the necessity for quick decisions, taxing of resources, and the need to undertake some speculative ventures. These require some extra outlay of unusual expense, but seem justified under the expansive and optimistic probabilities. Change or journey in connection with major propositions is imminent. Be wary with contracts and writings.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious, with leanings toward large affairs and a rather speculative nature. They should bring position, wealth and personal gratifications.

A bobbin frame has been invented which six curtains can be stitched for drying at a time.

The Gumps — By Gus Edson

HENRIETTA, DEAREST, WHEN I THINK OF THE FUTURE I GET DISCOURAGED
BE BRAVE, MY OWN—AS LONG AS THE WORLD STAYS ROUND; THEY CAN'T BACK US INTO A CORNER —
JUSTICE DOESN'T ALWAYS WIN — SUPPOSE THEY SEND ME TO JAIL AGAIN—
I'LL WAIT FOR YOU FOREVER— REMEMBER, DEAREST— TIME HEALS ALL WOUNDS
YOU'LL PROBABLY BE AN OLD WOMAN WHEN HE GETS OUT— HOW DO YOU KNOW HE'LL WANT YOU THEN? TIME MAY BE A GREAT HEALER, BUT HE'S A MIGHTY POOR BEAUTY DOCTOR—
